Another item under much discussion was the Bank of Montreal for a six-day a week service in Irma.

Moved by H. Targett and seconded by D. Gunn that season tickets be made and sold.

Moved by C. Jones and seconded by P. Jones that the next meeting be a banquet supper in the Hotel on January 15 at 7:30 p.m. and this meeting to be the Annual Meeting.

Moved by R. McFarland that this meeting adjourn.

Gas Company Staff and Officials Meet

Members of the gas staffs at Viking, Kinsella, Irma, Bruce, Holden and Tofield met with the officials of the gas company in the recreation room at the Viking Gas Camp last Friday afternoon to discuss mutual problems. This was followed by a turkey dinner after which movies were enjoyed. The after-dinner speakers were Mr. D. K. The meeting proved very beneficial in many ways in preserving the harmony and goodwill which is prevalent between employers and employees.

Wedding Bells

TINDALL — FENTON

Bouquets of mixed flowers and pink and white streamers and bells formed the setting in the Irma United Church on the afternoon of November 27 for the wedding of Eldred Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fenton of Irma, and James Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Tindall of Wainwright. The pews were marked with pink and white bows.

The Rev. H. W. Inglis read the marriage vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon velvet featuring a sweetheart neckline trimmed with pearl brocade and lily point sleeves which were outlined with tiny pearls. Her floor length veil fell softly from a tiara of pearls and bugle beads, and she carried a white Bible topped with red roses and garlanded with white streamers and red roses. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Sylvia Fenton, chose a gown of mauve taffeta with matching cape. She wore a mauve net halo and matching mittens. Her bouquet was comprised of yellow mums and tallisman roses.

The flower girl, Miss Barbara Fenton, wore pale yellow nylon sheer dress and a halo to match with black velvet trimmings. She carried a colonial bouquet.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Ben Tindall.

The ushers were Dennis Tindall and Colin Carter. The wedding music was played by Miss Shirley Mae Brown. During the signing of the register Mrs. R. L. Simmerman sang Through The Years.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride where 80 guests signed the guest book.

For receiving the guests, the bride's mother chose a gray lace trimmed dress with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of tallisman roses.

The groom's mother chose a black crepe dress with wine accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The bride's table was laid with a pink damask and was centered by a beautiful four tier wedding cake trimmed with pastel pink roses and flanked by tall white tapers.

During the reception Mrs. R. L. Simmerman sang the Blue Birds of Happiness.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. H. W. Inglis.

Leaving for a short honeymoon the bride chose a green velvet gown coat with brown accessories.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. Barber and family of Vegreville, Miss Sylvia Fenton of Calgary, Miss Elfrida Fenton of Lamont and Miss Doreen Tindall of Viking.

Express Thanks

Seeing double? That's what songstress Terry Dale thought when two bewhiskered gents in North Pole outfits suddenly appeared with a box of chocolates for her when she was putting up her Christmas tree. Then one of the Bantas pulled his beard down a little and revealed the mischievous grin of radio comedian Johnny Wayne. Of course the other jolly old customer could be none other than Frank Shuster. They explained to Terry that they were just getting into the mood for their pre-Christmas broadcast of the Wayne and Shuster Show. (Heard Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. on CBX.) OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

The Letter to Lester

Sara and Alice, (Sisters),
Reveal Their Life's Secret
To Each Other.

By Walter Desmond Booth

MISS SARA WORTHY was very old, and it was not expected that she would live. She had been sitting most of her life, but she had been fortunate in having her only sister, Alice, to minister to her. Neither had married, and had grown old together in the rambling house their father had left them fifty years before.

As Miss Alice sat by her sister's side she turned over in her mind the tangled events of their lives. She made up her mind that she would throw off a burden she had borne all these years. Not that it would matter now, but her conscience would at least rest easy.

Miss Alice laid a hand on her sister's arm. "Sara," she said softly. Sara turned her head slowly and looked at her. "I hear you, Alice."

"Are you strong enough to listen to me?"

"I'm quite strong now, Alice."

"I don't know how to start, and it isn't a very good time to bring up the subject at all, but I can't wait any longer. Sara, I have a confession. Forty-nine years ago next month you were supposed to be married to Lester Mankin. But you two had a little spat—remember?—and what was it all about? Oh, yes, it was about whether or not you would live with his people or ours. I don't know whether the quarrel was worth what you two put into it but he left in a rage, saying that you would never hear from him again until he heard the right word from you. Lester was awfully proud."

She paused in pensiveness, then continued. "Three days later you wrote him a letter. I don't know what you wrote him—that you want ed to make up, I guess—for you said that—"

Miss Sara raised her hand feebly. Miss Alice pushed on. "Not now, Sara. Let me finish. As I was saying, you wrote a letter to Lester. I can guess that you had swallowed your pride. I did walk down with you to mail it. Do you remember that you asked me to go, Sara?"

Sara tried again to say something. Again Alice stopped her. "No, wait, Sara. I'm not through." She began slowly again. "I saw you mail the letter, Sara. You did your part, but"—she lowered her voice—"you never did hear from him." The tragedy of a broken love hung heavy over the sick bed.

"Sara, I saw you mail your letter, but I saw, too, that you had forgotten to address it. I let you forget it, Sara. Did you understand what I said? I let you forget to address the letter. You can understand now can't you. Sara, why Lester never answered or called you?" She lowered her voice again to make the same confession. "You must certainly realize now, Sara, why I let you mail the letter unaddressed. I myself loved Lester, so I couldn't stand by and see him marry you. He might have loved me, if it hadn't been for you. But I didn't have a chance after what happened. He wouldn't even come near the house—and finally left town." She spoke passionately. "Sara, I loved him dearly! Will you forgive me for what I did, Sara?" She sobbed softly into her lace handkerchief.

Miss Sara laid a thin hand on Miss Alice's knee. "Alice," she said tremulously, "listen carefully to what I must tell you. When Papa died we had nothing but the tiny income and this house. I knew that we could make them both last to the end of our days if we were careful. Alice, I didn't really love Lester—that is, not enough to marry him. And Alice, if you had married him and gone away, who would have stayed here with me? Alice, I, too, knew that the letter was not addressed. She turned her head away. "I planned to let you see the envelope. When you did call my attention to it, I knew, then, that you, too, loved Lester. If you had called my attention to it, I would have addressed it, but it would have amounted to about the same thing, because there was only a blank piece of paper in it. Her voice choked. "Alice, I couldn't let you go. Can you forgive me, dear Alice?" She turned her head and looked pleadingly.

Their eyes met for a long moment. Then her gaze shifted from her sister's face to the farthest side of eternity and hung there.

CANADA WEST "REBORN"

In Medicine Hat they are proud of their little museum dedicated to the pioneer West. A few days ago I visited this museum and talked to the old timers, says John Fisher, noted radio-speaker. One of the original sod busters who came from Ontario told me he walked beside his Red River cart from Winnipeg to Medicine Hat—a thousand odd miles. His first home was built out of sods, mud and poles. When he first homesteaded he sowed his grain in the same fashion that people used in primitive times. He sowed his grain by dipping his hand in the bag and broadcasting the seed from side to side. When the first crude seeder arrived, he believed the West was discovered again.

He made the grandest predictions. When the reaper and binder came he predicted all over again. And the old steam thrasher with her long bouncing belt was something to behold—this was science at its best. When the tractor replaced the horse, the old timer shook his head. Then came the mighty combine and again he talked of the change in one man's lifetime. But something happened just a little northwest of him recently which has fired the old man with new imagination. He now believes that the golden wealth of the plains has a new black friend miles below the earth. "Oil," said the old timer, "is going to remake not only our West, but the whole of Canada."

The historian will agree with this aging old homesteader from the Hat. Already the historian has several pages of evidence. Even the language of the West is changing. Gone into the cavern of sweet memory are the expressions like: "ball team, corn-punchers, homesteader, harvesters' excursion." The Red River cart is getting old in museums. The horse will soon be an exhibit for school children. So will the horse-drawn plow.

This is the age of machinery—power machines burning oil. A revolution has hit the West in the span of living man. The West with oil is now reborn and even the most enthusiastic booster is tongue-tied to see the end. Horace Greeley's old prediction about "Go West, young man, go West," has been taken out of the cupboard. It has been lubricated with Alberta oil. Men are now saying that by the time the sun sets over the horizon of the year 2000, the country west of the Great Lakes will see cities to rival Montreal and Toronto.

Already the Westerners have learned a new language. In place of corn, they talk of tool pushers. Sod busters have become riggers. Drill bits stand beside grain elevators. Now they talk of "Christmas trees," drill bits, cat crackers and drill stem tests. The Western youngster of today hears his father talking of D3 and D2 and B-A. The precious soil which still produces the world's finest wheat is shaken by man-made earthquakes from seismograph operations. Carts have given way to "cats" and plows to pipes. The creaking of the old wagons is heard now in the silence of cracking.

The dry farmers now talk of wells. Golden wheat from the Plains still puts bread on Eastern tables. Now, from far below the wheat comes oil in the silence of cracking. The slave manufacturer in New Brunswick, the textile mills of Nova Scotia, the canned lobster packers of Prince Edward Island have seen their sales skyrocket in the West. Vancouver merchants are selling more goods in Alberta. Winnipeg distributors have put more men on the road.

Regina is so busy with oil men that there is scarcely a square foot of office space available. Ontario and Quebec are aroused by new sales in the West. The Newfoundlanders can sell more fish in the East because of more prosperity in the West. New refineries have been built in a string of cities. Scores of millions of dollars are going into exploration. The search is on. The little companies which supply the oil men with derrick, pipe, bits, drills, feathers, cement, trucks, pumps, electrical equipment are appearing like mushrooms on the Prairies. The West is reborn. The West is opening up again. Predictions are plentiful, but this time Canada herself is adamant with promise. At last the old story about the 30th Century belonging to Canada is unfolding, thanks largely to Western Oil. The great gamble of grain is being secured by the black gold beneath the earth. Already new and big industries are coming close to the very mouths of oil and gas. Canada is being reborn.

Yes, old homesteaders from Medicine Hat, you saw in your lifetime the tools of the West change from the primitive cradle to the combine. But, old timer, you are now seeing the revolution of the "cat cracker" and pipe lines and wonders which would make Aladdin's Lamp look lumpy and lost. If you could see the maze of wonders at this new refinery you would just shake your head. You would ask "what next?"

And if the Fathers of Confederation could be here today, they would laugh at their sanguine predictions about steel across the Prairies. The train of unity now rides on oil and rough pipes. The "old pipe of peace" has given way to the pipe of plenty. The symbol of the new Canadian dream is here in the weird assortment of pipes and towers southeast of Edmonton. The Fathers would be proud of this all-Canadian company. Yes, old timer, keep a place in your museum for all. Remember, the West is just starting—The War Cry.

Snow houses or igloos are not very common among Eskimos.

White Panel Truck Will Help Stranded Drivers And Promote Highway Safety

Carrying the gospel of highway safety to high schools in Alberta will be the duty of the new white panel truck which goes into service this week as the first Highway Safety Education Unit of the provincial government.

The unit is sponsored by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Provincial Secretary's Dept. and will be available to all schools with students at or near the legal driving age of 16. The unit will also serve groups and organizations interested in promoting highway safety.

Although primarily an educational unit which carries a 16 mm. sound movie projector, the truck will also be equipped with a first aid kit, tow chain, wrecking bar, firefighting equipment, a stretcher and flares so that its driver will be able to assist motorists in trouble.

Inspector P. J. Rowan of the Motor Vehicle Branch has been placed in charge of the unit and is authorized to enforce the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act on his travels as well as to arrest any motorist for traffic violations.

Mr. Rowan is a graduate of the Nyhart Driving Training Course. He holds a certificate of proficiency in the St. John's Ambulance Association and is an experienced auto mechanic. During the past 4 years, he has travelled in all parts of Alberta as an inspector for the Motor Vehicle Branch.

His job will be to inform the public on the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act and the Public Service Vehicle Act as well as show films and lecture on safe driving. Schools or organizations wishing to use the services of the new safety education unit should contact the Motor Vehicle Branch at the Administration Building.

The meeting was called to order at 4:45 p.m. by Mr. Sig Lefsrud, the District Representative and R. H. Brooke, chosen secretary for the meeting.

Mr. Lefsrud explained the need for a committee on resolutions and asked that each local represented at the time appoint one of its members to act on this committee. Messrs. G. Miller, Camrose; E. Leah, Sedgewick; E. H. Buckle, Wainwright; A. J. Terry, Hardisty; H. G. Thunell, Viking and C. H. Brennan, Vermilion were appointed. Mr. Miller to act as chairman.

Mr. Lefsrud then announced that dinner was not being served and each member would be expected to look after himself, also that lunch would be provided after the meeting.

Mr. G. T. Loney then asked that a nominating committee be appointed before the meeting adjourned for dinner. Messrs. G. L. Blades, Camrose; C. E. Blakney, Sedgewick; E. H. Gehring, Wainwright; M. Aasen, Hardisty; E. J. Eley, Vermilion and M. P. Pica, Viking, were appointed with Mr. Blades as chairman.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:15 p.m. and called to order again at 7:30 p.m.

Many more members had arrived in the meantime and St. Paul, Killam, Beaver Lake, Edgerton, Kelsey-Bawit Associations were now represented.

The chairman asked Mr. Loney to introduce the guests of honor. Mr. Eric Huestis, Alberta Game Commissioner, Mr. Buster Brown, President of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, Mr. Ken Harley, Alberta manager of Ducks Unlimited, Mr. Frank Arnfinson, Fish St. Paul district, Mr. George Senz, Game Guardian of Vermilion district and Mr. Ken Watts were welcomed to the meeting.

Minutes of the last district meeting and Game Guardian of Ing were then read. Mr. Buster Brown spoke on the minutes stating that Birch Lake had never been open to shooting as had been understood by the last meeting but had always been kept as a Sanctuary.

The minutes were adopted on a motion by Mr. Leroux and Mr. Welch.

Mr. George Miller was then asked to present the resolutions as approved by the committee.

Resolutions
1. Whereas the discontinuance by the government of its former practice of paying a bounty to any person for the destruction of coyotes has unquestionably been followed by a heavy increase in the number of coyotes in the country.

Therefore be it Resolved that the Provincial Government be urged to pay a bounty of five dollars ($5.00) on the destruction of each coyote to any person who offers satisfactory evidence that he has destroyed such animal within the province.

And be it Further Resolved, each of the Local branches of the Alberta Fish and Game Association approach their M.L.A. with a view to gain his assistance in obtaining immediate action on this matter.

Submitted by Viking Fish and Game Protective Association, approved by Parkland District.

2. Whereas it is self evident that there is a crying need in this province for more full-time game guardians.

Therefore be it Resolved that we appeal to the Provincial Government to make the urgently required appointments at the earliest possible date.

Submitted by Viking Fish and Game Protective Association, approved by Parkland District.

3. Whereas many Beaver are being destroyed that are doing little if any damage.

Be it Resolved that the Dept. be approached requesting that closer check be made before issuing permits to take such Beaver.

Submitted by Hardisty Fish and Game Association, approved by Parkland District.

4. Whereas many Beaver are being wounded and lost by shooting.

Be it Resolved that permits issued for the taking of beaver that are doing damage, that such permits state that the Beaver may be trapped only.

Submitted by Hardisty Fish and Game Association, approved by Parkland District.

5. Whereas there has been much controversy regarding Sunday shooting within the province.

Be it Resolved that the Dept. be requested to have the 1952 Licenses so printed that the sportsmen of the province may vote as to whether or not Sunday shooting should be allowed.

Submitted by Wainwright Fish and Game Association, approved by Parkland District.

6. Whereas there have been many shooting accidents while hunting big game and whereas many of these accidents have been credited to the inability to distinguish colors.

Be it Resolved that all applicants for big game license be required to undergo a test for color blindness.

Submitted by Beaver Lake Fish and Game Association, not approved by Parkland District.

At this point a discussion was started in regard to permitting the shooting of female deer, after some discussion it was moved by A. J. Terry of Hardisty and Milton Acres of Hardisty that the present regulation should not be changed. Carried.

8. Whereas the Pheasant population is much smaller this year than in previous years owing to weather conditions and predatory action and whereas the bag limit was much too large. Therefore be it Resolved that the bag limit be held at a maximum of six (6) until these birds are better established.

Submitted by Camrose Fish and Game Association, approved by Parkland District.

9. Whereas the Magpie population is still on the increase in spite of the crow and magpie campaigns which are presently being operated.

Be it Resolved that any money left after the close of the summer crow and magpie campaign be used to stage a winter magpie destruction campaign.

Submitted by Vermilion Fish and Game Association, approved by Parkland District.

9. Whereas there has been a sharp increase in the number of Hungarian Partridge in the area north of Highway No. 16. Be it Resolved that a longer season and larger bag limit be allowed north of Highway No. 16.

Submitted by Vermilion Fish and Game Association. Not approved by Parkland District.

10. Mr. Huestis spoke to the meeting regarding the above resolution stating that his department was prepared to assist in this venture by trapping the Elk and paying for one half of the cost of the transportation, provided that the Fish and Game Associations in the district would arrange for the trucks and see that the animals were properly transported and liberated as well as assuming the balance of the transportation costs.

The chairman then asked Mr. Blades to report for the nominating committee.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:45 p.m. Following the meeting and before the lunch an instructive film, provided by Mr. Harley and entitled Meet the Ducks, was shown by Mr. Ray Skaret of Viking. R. H. Brooke, Secretary.

New Grain Doors Developed by CNR

Winnipeg, Nov. 27—New "low loss" grain doors recently developed by the CNR are expected to affect considerable savings for western farmers and grain shippers. Besides having a longer life and making it easier to unload cars, the new doors practically eliminate all grain loss during shipment.

In place of the former all wood grain doors, the new doors have three paperboard panels mounted in a stronger lower frame. To unload the grain it is necessary only to puncture the paperboard. The flow of grain can be regulated by the size of the puncture, allowing grain to be bagged directly from the car if desired. With the insertion of new paperboard the doors are ready for use again.

B. of M. Issues New Statement

Something entirely new in the interpretation of bank statements has been initiated by the Bank of Montreal this week, in reporting its financial position to customers at the end of its 134th year of operations. The B of M's message, highlighting the most significant aspects of its 1951 statement, presents a striking departure from the traditional pattern of Canadian bank reports. Strongly emphasizing the personal approach, it is published as a signed statement from the local B of M manager, Harold Skjeie.

Headed "A Special Message from Your B of M Manager," the report is no longer a bank statement in the ordinary sense of the word but a plain-spoken review of the main features of the bank's experience throughout the past 12 months. Written in straight-forward, non-technical language and illustrated by appropriate thumbnail sketches, the report represents a further advance in the direct "grass-roots" approach pioneered by the Bank of Montreal in its annual reports for the past seven years.

In the preamble of this humanizing report, the local manager makes several down-to-earth comments upon the Canadian way of living. He emphasizes that the people seem to combine stability with a go-ahead spirit and sums up the Canadian way of life in two words, "steady progress."

1,800,000 Canadians have $2 Billion On Deposit at B of M
Total deposits at the 572 branches of the B of M across Canada now amount to a new high of $2,985,000,000, according to the message which adds that "some of this money belongs to business firms and institutions, but more than half of it is the savings of everyday people."

Loans now stand at over $646,000,000, another highest year-end figure in B of M history. This figure is indicative of the vast scale of co-operation with business and private individuals made possible through the confidence placed in the Bank of Montreal by its 1,800,000 depositors. "Farmers, fishermen, ranchers and lumbermen borrowed a great deal from us," states the report, "but we lent money to people in every walk of life and to business of every kind."

Loans Would be Greater But For Credit Curbs

The B of M points out that its policy of working with the government, in measures "designed to combat inflation and help gear up Canada's economy for the defence program," resulted in the cutting down of many loans which it would otherwise have wished to make. But for this factor the record loan figure would have been even higher.

WHEAT CHEQUES TO BE MAILED BEFORE CHRISTMAS

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — Prairie wheat farmers who participated in the 1950-51 Western wheat pool will share in final payments totalling $105,000,000, Trade Minister Howe announced in the Commons Monday. Cheques will be mailed before Christmas.

This represents a final average payment of 28.65 cents a bushel on the 1950-51 crop—more than some farmers had expected. It brings the price of top-quality No. 1 Northern to the farmer to $1.855 a bushel, basis deliveries to Fort William, Port Arthur or Vancouver. This is slightly higher than the $1.833 realized in the previous crop year.

Unlike average crop in the past, the 1950-51 crop was mostly low-grade wheat, but high world demand kept prices buoyant. Prices to the farmers ranged from $1.855 for No. 1 Northern to $1.446 for feed wheat.

The retail stores have over a long period of years, learned just what type of merchandise is most acceptable to the shoppers of this district. They had to, to continue to give the satisfactory year round shopping service they do. By the same token, they know what appeals to the people of this district from the standpoint of Christmas shopping. At the wholesalers, their choice must be discriminating and exact, taking the choice items of a large stock display, to bring back to offer to the people that shop in their stores. And at the same time, they must offer these goods at prices that are most competitive. It's nicer to shop at home. It's nicer to deal with people who know you. It's nicer to deal with people you know. Thus it is a good idea to do your Christmas shopping in your own home town. Only ten more shopping days to Christmas.

Hon. Gordon Taylor, minister of highways, paid a high tribute to the Alberta Wheat Pool in an address delivered to the annual Pool banquet. The minister said that not only has the Alberta Wheat Pool given excellent service to its members, but it has also done commendable work in the Junior Farm Club movement. This movement has developed leadership among the young farm people and has a tendency to encourage such young people to stay on the farms.

000,000 mark are held by the B of M at the end of its 134th year in business. Well over $976,000,000 is held in high-grade government bonds and other public securities. These are listed in the bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value. Combined with securities representing short-term credits to industry, these investments total $1,108,000,000.

War Against Hunger

THE WORK OF THE Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations is following with interest by many people here because of its concern with the production and distribution of wheat and other crops produced in Canada. Canadians are concerned too with the efforts of the organization to combat hunger and poverty throughout the world. Recently the guiding council of the F.A.O., met in Rome and the Director General, Norris E. Dodd, once more emphasized the importance of speeding the effort "to wipe out mass hunger and lift the burden of poverty from men's shoulders." Although the Food and Agriculture Organization has been active for the past five years, the Director General said that it had not yet begun to achieve its objectives and he told the members of the council that "if the tide of hunger continues to rise there will inevitably be also a rising tide of unrest, revolution and war."

World's Food Supply Less

Since the last war the world's population has risen by 12 per cent, but food production has increased by only nine per cent, leaving less food per capita than there was five years ago. Because of the fact that there has never been equal distribution, the more prosperous countries now have all or more than they need, while the others are faced with increasing shortages. Greater production and more even distribution of world food supplies are undoubtedly the answer to the problem and it is to this end that the Food and Agriculture Organization works. Through its efforts, food production is being increased in countries where the need is great, and supplies are shipped from the more prosperous countries to those where food is scarce. Economic barriers provide difficulties in many cases where more equitable distribution could otherwise be carried out.

Canada Will Share Burden

Wheat is regarded as a fundamental item in the world food supply. It was expected that the total world production of wheat would be higher in 1951 than it was in the preceding year, but this estimate was made before it was known that normal harvest conditions would not prevail in Western Canada this year. The expectation of light harvests in Australia and Argentina have caused the Food and Agriculture Organization to look to the other two major wheat-producing countries, Canada and the United States, to assume the burden of supplying needy countries in the coming year. The unfavourable harvest conditions, which have caused so much concern in Western Canada this year, will no doubt effect the world wheat supply, but it is to be hoped that there will be sufficient wheat and other foods available to carry on the important and humanitarian plans of the Food and Agriculture Organization in the coming year.

Hunter Pays Government To Free Conscience

EDMONTON.—The Alberta government's fish and game branch is $75 richer and a 72-year-old Vancouver man, formerly of Alberta, can die without a guilty conscience. The man sent to the judge of the district court in Innisfail, Alta., a cheque for $75 which he said was the money he received sometime between 1909 and 1920 for pelts of six beavers he killed illegally. He said he didn't expect to live very long and wanted to die with a clear conscience. The money was turned over to the government's fish and game branch.

Scald 1½ c. milk, ½ c. granulated sugar, 2 tps. salt and ½ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl ¾ c. lukewarm water, 3 c. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 3 envelopes Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well. Add lukewarm milk mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs, ¼ c. maraschino cherry syrup and 1 tsp. almond extract. Stir in 4 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2 c. seedless raisins, 1 c. currants, 1 c. chopped candied peel, 1 c. sliced maraschino cherries and 1 c. broken walnuts. Work in 3½ c. (about) once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and set in a warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough, turn out on lightly-floured board and divide into 4 equal portions; cut each portion into 20 equal-sized pieces; knead each piece into a smooth round ball. Arrange 10 small balls in each of 4 greased loaf pans (4½" x 8½") and grease tops. Arrange remaining balls on top of the pans and grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, about 1 hour, covering with brown paper after first ½ hour. Spread cold loaves with icing. Cut 4 loaves. Note: The 4 portions of dough may be shaped into loaves to fit pans, instead of being divided into the small pieces that produce knobby loaves.

Breaking Records Is Their Specialty

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haight of Floral, Sask., are justly proud of their offspring, for they boast a record unequalled by any other Canadian family. Six of their eight children have, in the past six years, been on junior farm teams representing Saskatchewan at Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. With three sets of twins in the family and 10 sets of twin calves in dairy herd on Haight farm, this remarkable family must have established another record apart from junior farm club work.—Central Press Canadian.

Protein Content Of 1951 Wheat On Average

Saskatchewan Grain Leads With Alberta And Manitoba Following

WINNIPEG.—The reputation of Canadian grades of wheat will be maintained by the 1951 crop.

The grain research laboratory of the board of grain Commissioners reported that protein content and baking strength of 1951 wheat will be just above the long-time average, and that flour yield should be good.

Considered by the laboratory as a No. 3 and 4 northern crop, 70 per cent, will go into the two grades.

Total marketings of red spring wheat, the report indicated, will amount to 440,000,000 bushels. Less than one per cent. will go No. 1 Northern and about seven per cent. No. 2.

Percentages of tough and damp grain will be even higher than in 1950.

Average protein content will be about 15.3 per cent, against a twenty-year average of 13.6. The improvement is mainly in the No. 4 Northern.

Saskatchewan wheat leads in protein content with 14.2 per cent, against 12.9 for Manitoba and 13 for Alberta.

(A protein content of 13.3 per cent, is considered ideal for bread, and proportions in excess of this can be reduced).

There is not much difference in the baking strengths of the first four grades of the 1951 crop or in their supporting value, and doughs handle satisfactorily.

Funny and Otherwise

"When my daughter wrote and told me she was bringing home a soldier called Montgomery," said Elsie's mother, coldly, to the awkward young man who stood sheepishly by her daughter's side, "I expected something higher than a lance-corporal."

"At first she was going to turn him down because he hadn't a will of his own—then she found he was likely to benefit from his uncle."

"Have you a hair restorer that really restores?"
"Yes, sir! This preparation is sure to do the trick."
"Okay, good enuf. Wrap me up a brush and comb with it."

Teacher: "I asked you to draw a horse and cart, and you've only drawn a horse."
Tommy: "Yes—the horse will draw the cart!"

"I hope," said one wife to another, "that you never nag your husband."

"Only when he is beating the carpets," said the second one. "When he is thoroughly irritated he makes a much better job of it."

The passenger leaned out of the taxi window. "What on earth are you doing?" he shouted to the driver. "I asked you to drive me from Victoria to Leicester Square, and this is the fourth time you've passed St. Paul's."

"I'm sorry, sir," replied the driver. "I thought you were an American."

"I haven't met your husband. What's he like?"
"Just the ordinary type: 42 around the waist, 42 around the chest, 92 around the golf course, and a nuisance around the house."

The dentist in a mountain town looked sympathetically at his patient and said: "I'm sorry, Zeke, that it was necessary to extract your front teeth, but—"

"Hi's all right, Doc," lisped the bearded mountaineer. "Shucks! I learnt to pull pig corks with a knife blade when I lost my first teeth."

Gerald was Aunt Matilda's favorite nephew and she was planning to send him a birthday gift. "What did you give him last year?" asked her companion.

"A cheque," said auntie, "and, poor boy, he told me he couldn't find words with which to thank me."

"And what are you giving him this year?"
"A dictionary."

"Johnson says he wears his trousers in his house."

"Perhaps so but every night after supper he wears an apron over them."

"I know I'm not much to look at," admitted the suitor.

"Oh, well," philosophized his bride-to-be, "you'll be at the office most of the time."

17 Per Cent. Cash Income Of Farmers From Dairy Products

Prairie Provinces Produce 28 Per Cent. of Canada's Milk Production

About 17 per cent. of the total cash income of Canadian farmers comes from the sale of dairy products. It is only exceeded by that derived from livestock and from wheat and is about twice the income from farm sales of poultry and eggs and nearly four times that of fruit and vegetables.

Cash income from dairying does not include returns from veal calves or sales of dairy cattle for slaughter. If these were included, it is probable that since 1940, dairy income would be second only to income from all livestock. The census shows that in 1941, nearly 80 per cent. of the 733 thousand farmers in Canada kept cows for milk.

Canadian milk production increased steadily from 10.6 billion pounds in 1920 to 17.5 billion pounds in 1942. Between 1942 and 1945 the rate levelled off and since 1945 a slight decline in production has been apparent. Central Canada is the chief producing area and accounts for about 62 per cent. of production. The Prairie Provinces follow with 28 per cent, while the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia together produce about 10 per cent. of the total milk supply.

Increased milk production in Canada is due to increases both in the number of cows and in the production of milk per cow. Though production today is some 40 per cent. greater than in 1920, consumption of fluid milk has increased greatly—particularly in the last decade, and the concentrated milk industry has developed into an important phase of dairy processing. Thus, while production of milk has kept pace with population growth, there has been a gradual decline in the quantity of milk available for export.

THE OLD AND THE NEW—Not only is dairying an important branch of farming; it is also one of Canada's leading manufacturing industries. But the hand methods of yesterday have given way to the mechanized ones of today. In sanitary, efficient plants the milk from the farm is made into various dairy products by intricate machines which bottle, process and package with an ease that is almost miraculous. The part played by dairying—both in agriculture and in the processing industry—is portrayed in a new Canada Department of Agriculture colour film called "Dairy-Made" which will be shown through the rural circuits of the National Film Board during the winter.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Love At Wilder Junction

The Forest Fire Brought
Glenna and Rip Together
Again.

By ANNA E. WILSON

RIPLEY CONWAY was checking the fire equipment in his truck when a tall girl on a shambling horse rode into view. Opposite Rip, she pulled her horse to a walk and drawled slowly.

"Howdy, Ripley."

Ripley's voice was taut. "Howdy, Glenna."

Glenna stared stubbornly at a fly on Bandy's nose. "Bill's coming in today. I had a letter."

Ripley was bent over the truck, checking shovels. He didn't look up. "Weather's been pretty dry hereabouts, Glenna. Better watch out for fires. Wilder Mountain's a bad place to get caught in."

"Thanks, Ripley." Her voice hardened and she kicked her horse into motion. "Bill will be over to see you later," she called back as he got out from behind the truck. He stared after her.

For a minute, he had had an idea that Glenna had been going to say something. Something important. Now all he could see was the back of a tall girl on a horse—both loaded with camping equipment. It was remarkable how fast that shambling gait of Bandy's carried them. Rip put his notebook in his pocket and made for the station.

Lank Lannigan raised his long frame lazily from a split-bottomed chair and spoke without looking at Ripley. "Want to take a ride with me? While back, thought you and Glenna were making a match of it but seems lately you're giving each other the cold shoulder."

Rip was half way up the fire tower. He didn't answer Lank. He had his thoughts about Glenna.

He'd met her first when he'd taken over the job of fire warden two years ago. She'd ridden in with her brother on the way up to his camp on Wilder. "Howdy, stranger," Bill had said. "See you've taken over the station. My name's Bill Colby. This is Glenna."

You could see they were brother and sister. He stretched out a lean hand to be met by one as brown as his own. He'd noticed then that their eyes were clear and honest.

She and Bill had ridden over often after that and he'd spent his first leave with them—riding, fishing and shooting. A short month ago, he'd only been waiting for his next relief to ride into town to buy a ring before asking Glenna to marry him. It was then that Glenna had turned up with a letter from Sally Blanchard.

He'd already forgotten his brief engagement to Sally during the war. Sally had turned him down for Hap Haaleit in the air force. Hap had been invalided out and was still in hospital and now Sally had written to Glenna telling Glenna about her engagement to Rip without mentioning Hap—leaving Glenna to draw her own conclusions.

He'd tried to explain things but a coolness had sprung up between him and Glenna. He wasn't sure whether Glenna didn't believe him when he told her his engagement had been broken off or whether she was just hurt because he hadn't told her about the affair. He wished he could find a way to prove to Glenna how much he loved her.

She must have taken a short cut back through Wilder for he didn't see her all morning. It was early afternoon before he saw her. A purple haze of smoke rising north of the Wilder range which rapidly turned to scarlet. He tapped out a hot message and, minutes later, saw a plane streaking north and knew that already Joe Haas would be rounding up freighters. Jan pulled in at the station to check over his trucks briefly as they passed him. His voice was sharp.

"Lots of dead timber this side of Wilder. Fire got into it and is making headway against the wind which is in our favor. So is Wilder Gorge. One end of the river at the river at an angle but the other end runs out at that stretch of rock where there's nothing to feed on. If we can hold it by starting a slow blaze this side of the gorge the wind will drive our fire into the advancing blaze and we can fight her with fire."

From the fire tower five minutes later, Rip could see the trees falling along the gorge as the fighters went into action, working towards the junction of the gorge and the river. Once the river had split at this junction, part flowing into the gorge, but a pulp company had walled off the gorge, turning its water into the main stream and built a power dam above it.

The phone rang and Lank's startled voice rang up to him. "Bill Colby's landed and wants to know if Glenna's here. She hasn't come in yet."

Rip's breath caught raggedly. Glenna was trapped on Wilder. The fire had broken out north of Bill's cabin. Glenna's ridden straight for Wilder Junction, hoping to cross the gorge by a couple of miles to the south. She was caught between two fires.

Rip called for Lank to mind the station and raced for his truck. He headed for the bridge only to ride into Haas' fire. He had to turn back. The glade to find that the fire hadn't reached the head of the gorge. A glance showed that he couldn't drive his truck through the smoke, and without it he had no time to reach Glenna and get out again before the fire closed in on them.

Rip tore wildly at his equipment for a box of dynamite. Crawling through the gorge, he dug frantically beneath the wall where it joined the frame of the dam. He hurried back leaving a trail of dynamite sticks rammed under the concrete. He lit a short fuse and raced for his truck. Kicking it into gear, he backed out in high. The explosion spread shattered glass all about him.

The water had barely levelled out, when he dived and headed for Wilder Mountain.

Rip had been right about Glenna. She had ridden along the gorge before she discovered she was trapped. To make things worse, Bandy stumbled, threw her and bolted. It seemed as if she had been crawling for hours, choking and fighting back, before she realized that the sound she heard was not the fire but the sound of running water. She threw herself down, rolled into the gorge and hit water. She heard Rip's voice and answered joyfully. They came out together at the mouth of the gorge; found the truck and piled into it. They drove home slowly.

Over hot coffee in the station, Rip kissed her. "About Sally—"

"It's all right, Rip," Glenna's voice was muffled in Rip's coat. "In that letter from Bill, he told me all about Sally."

Alberta Has

Yes, But They Laughed At Horseless Carriages, Too

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. — A modern Daedalus has contrived a machine that flies like a bird.

Called an "ornithopter" it's an engine-powered bicycle with wings fore and aft which flap up and down in birdlike rhythm.

In tests recently the strange-looking contrivance, with one man aboard, cleared the ground by about five feet.

Its inventor, James E. Caldwell, says it uses gravity for most of its power. He studied the principles of bird flight for 10 years, then built the "ornithopter" in four months.

H. W. (Bill) Francis, operator of a Medicine Hat flying service, helped with the design.

Two sets of jointed wings reach out from each side some nine or 10 feet. The metal wing frames have cloth aircraft covering, spaced a short distance apart at one point to simulate the spread of a bird's wing feathers.

In operation, the wings flap as the bike moves. The bike engine rates only two horsepower, but on the strength of recent tests Mr. Caldwell plans to rebuild the machine and use a 10-horsepower engine, with possibly a motor-cycle replacing the bike.

Mr. Caldwell says the machine gets 100 miles of propulsion on one gallon of gasoline.

"The wing lifts the weight and the weight propels the wings," says the inventor. "This formula is the science of using air for a highway, and of using gravity for most of the power to travel on that highway."

"The introduction of this science, although I know it will be greeted with scepticism by most people, may prove to be of greater commercial value than atomic energy."

Mr. Caldwell, now living in Medicine Hat, is a native of Ontario. He says he worked in California on construction of "Howard Hughes' huge flying boat, 'Albatross'."

Farmers Prompt
Tax Payers

OTTAWA.—Canada's farmers apparently pay strict adherence to the government's income tax laws. Only two prosecutions were launched against them during the last five years, a return tabled in the commons for Robert Fair (S.C.—Battle River) showed.

One was launched in Quebec and the other in Saskatchewan. Only one conviction was obtained.

Total number of taxable returns filed by all farmers in 1949 amounted to 52,880, up from 51,449 in 1948, and the amount of tax declared increased to $17,970,000 from $15,392,000.

The increases were in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The other provinces were down.

It's a mystery that will probably never be solved: An exhausted little mongrel who was around Buffalo, N.Y., in an animal hospital recovering from shock and exposure. An attempt was made by two big dogs to drown him in an icy creek. A policeman rescued him and termed the unusual incident "attempted murder." He said the big dogs tossed the victim in the creek each time he crawled out. Craved a wag: "Watching humans too closely."
